VOL. XXXVI

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1914.

No. 39

Editorial Comments.

"Only Hopkinsville on Earth."

Gov. McCreary will open his senatorial campaign in a speech at Winchester April 6.

A B. Trentman shot a negro waiter in a Ft. Wayne hotel, who didn't step around to suit him.

Congressman Langley has appointed Hiram Fields, of Letcher county, as a cadet to West Point.

County Attorney W. E. Clay, of Grant county, shot by S. M. Billiter, last Tuesday, died Saturday.

Speaker Champ Clark deserted the President just when he needed him most and has lined up with the Shipping Trust.

Staying married is still a very serious problem in Louisville. One judge granted 14 divorces last week in a single day.

In the scrap between the President on one side and Clark and Underwood on the other, put us down for the President.

Mrs. Henry Beasley, of Evansville, embraced her infant too tightly in her sleep and when she awoke the child was dead in her arms.

Ten of the jurors who convicted the four Rosenthal gunmen in New York, have petitioned the Governor to grant a stay of execution.

The Associated Press says Queen Eleanor will be our first royal visitor. What's the matter with Queen Lil, of Hawaii, who called upon us some years ago?

Senator Ollie James was the principal speaker at a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, Saturday night, given by the Westchester County Democratic Club.

Randall McCoy, aged 90, famous as a feud leader 27 years ago, died at Pikeville, Ky., Saturday. Two of his sons, one daughter and two brothers were killed in feud fights with the Hatfields.

Miss Sallie Stout, the champion fancy quilt maker of Barren county, is dead, aged 75. Unfortunately she was never married and so leaves no daughters, to hand down her accomplishments in needle-work.

A Lexington grocer is making a test case of the Sunday closing ordinance passed by the city commissioners. He will set up a claim that groceries are "necessities" such as are permitted by the statutes to be sold on Sunday.

Another lone bandit held up a train near Columbia, S. C., Saturday night and got $40,000 from the express car. He was on the train and going into the express car forced the agent to open the safe and jumped off with his loot as the train slowed up for a small station.

The defection of Clark and Underwood is likely to bring about a new alignment of Democratic leaders in the House. Sherley, of Kentucky, is coming to the front as an administration supporter and Henry, of Texas, is the logical candidate to succeed Clark as speaker. As for Underwood, Hobson is hot on his trail.

President Wilson won the first skirmish in the fight to repeal the law exempting American ships from canal tolls. The motion to limit debate carried 207 to 176. Only 8 Republicans voted with the administration and both Clark and Underwood voted with Republicans as did Helm and Thomas, of Kentucky. The bill is expected to be passed to-day or tomorrow.

The Capitol Commission of Oklahoma, which is to report on plans for the new $1,500,000 capitol building at Oklahoma City, arrived in Frankfort Thursday to inspect Kentucky's building. They were greatly impressed with the beauty and setting of the Kentucky capitol. The most gratifying thing about their visit was that they did not find the Legislature in a state of eruption.

MEMORIAL TABLETS IN

Lucian H. Davis' Donation To The Elks Lodge Being Installed.

ELEGANT MARBLE SLABS.

Memorial To Hilliard M. Dalton, His Brother-in-law, and Other Honored Dead.

The memorial tablets donated by Past Exalted Ruler Lucian H. Davis to Hopkinsville Lodge No. 545 B. P. O. E. are now ready to be put in place on the west wall of the lodge room. The memorial is to be accompanied by an inscription setting forth that it is presented in memory of Hilliard M. Dalton and other honored dead. There are two marble slabs 4 by 8 feet with a space between them. Each slab will hold two rows of names and one of them is already half filled, with names cut in the marble. The tablets will be surmounted by a panel holding the eleven o'clock dial and the head of an elk. Mr. Davis' plan is to have a panel on the other side of the room containing a portrait gallery of the past exalted rulers of the lodge, but this has not been fully arranged as yet.

The donation to the lodge is a splendid, costly and highly appreciated one and is a lasting testimonial of Mr. Davis' generosity and of his loving devotion to the order.

NOVELTY IN PHILANTHROPY

Elbridge Cayce Without Explanation Donates 20 Hogs To His Neighbors.

Elbridge Cayce, a leading farmer, entered the role of philanthropist in a novel way last winter and the facts are just coming out from a comparison of notes by his beneficiaries. Last fall a great many of the farmers who killed their hogs early lost their meat by a sudden change of temperature. The Kentuckian at the time made mention of their misfortunes, giving many names of those who suffered loss.

Mr. Cayce had not killed his hogs and later when he put up his own pork he had a surplus of 20 hogs. Instead of converting them into money, he slaughtered them and literally gave away more than $400 worth of meat. Hitching up his wagon he took the 20 dressed hogs and first driving to the Orphans Home left two. He then made a wide circuit through the county, leaving a hog with every farmer he knew of who had lost his meat. Some "caught him in the act" but he would drive off and refuse to discuss the matter. Some of those who were presented with a hog attempted to pay Mr. Cayce but he refused to even talk about it and still declines to offer any explanation. One of his beneficiaries who was particularly insistent on the subject of giving him a check, was extended an invitation to go to hades, as the 'phone receiver was hung up.

Stanley Flays Beckham.

Congressman A. O. Stanley, in a speech at Mt. Sterling in furtherance of his candidacy for the United States Senate, replied to the attacks of former Gov. Beckham in an address at Elizabethtown, calling attention to the latter's alleged corporation affiliations and his record at the Baltimore convention.

PENNYROYAL SETS THE PACE

Will Give $8,400 in A Dozen Big Pacing Events Next Fall.

THERE ARE SIX $1000 STAKES

Highest Classes of Horses In Kentucky Expected to be On Hand.

The Pennyroyal Fair is first in the race for business this fall and has already announced some of the big stakes for the next fair.

Heading the list are six stakes of $1,000 each, which are offered as follows: For 2:25 trot, for 2:18 trot, for 2:12 trot, for 2:30 pace for 2:16 pace and for 2:10 pace. In addition to this there will be six purses of $400 each in addition to lesser prizes. This will bring the total amount offered an racing alone close to $10,000. Already these stakes are being advertised extensively and are in plenty of time to catch the best stables before they are booked for the season. With this amount of money hung up there will be more horses and better horses here than last year and the racing will unquestionably be of the very highest class and most exciting.

All the races will be the best three heats in five and the money will be divided into purses of fifty, twenty-five, fifteen and ten per cent. Entrance fee three per cent and seven per cent additional from money winners. Entries must be in by June 1.

SILOS UNDER DISCUSSION

Expert Stock Feeders Make Most Instructive Addresses at Grange.

At the Church Hill Grange Friday there was an interesting discussion on silos and silage, participated in by Morgan Hughes, of Bowling Green, S. L. Cowherd and Jeff. J. Garrett. They have all had successful experience with silos and Mr. Hughes is in charge of farm demonstration work for this part of Kentucky and is a stock feeder on a big scale.

Mr. Cowherd makes a specialty of fattening cattle for the market and is thoroughly informed on the subject. Mr. Garrett is also a pioneer in the use of silage in the county.

The meeting was largely attended and the talks were interesting and very instructive.

ENTERTAINMENT

Given at Opera House to Be Repeated Friday Night.

The teachers of the West Side school have been urged to repeat the little entertainment given last Friday night. On account of the immense crowd many parents who had bought tickets could get no seats, therefore, the children will give the second performance Friday night, April 3, at Holland's Opera House.

The teachers are so opposed to the sale of tickets on the streets and in stores by the pupils that tickets may be bought at Anderson & Fowler's, 25c for children and adults. No reserved seats.

Little Miss Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Maddox, of near Julien, are the proud parents of a fine daughter, born last Thursday.

FIGHTING IS STILL FIERCE

Constitutionalists Hold All Positions in City Except Three Barracks.

3,000 HORS DE COMBAT

Nine Hundred Rebels and Two Thousand Federals Killed and Wounded.

Juarez, Mex., March 30.—An official message from the front last night states that fighting is still going on for the possession of Torreon.

The telegram says the rebels now hold all positions except the main barracks and two smaller barracks. In the last 24 hours it is reported that General Villa took Correo de la Cruz and the Torreon foundry.

Another telegram admits a rebel loss in the last six days of 900 killed and wounded, and place the rebel loss at 2,000. As there are already at Chihuahua 500 wounded, the report of rebel losses is thought to have been minimized. Among the rebel wounded is General Thomas Urbina.

It is said that private soldiers taken prisoners are being taken into the rebel ranks, but their officers are executed, unless they take the oath of allegiance to the constitutional cause. All irregular troops in the federal garrison are executed on capture.

TWO SMALL JUDGMENTS

Given Colored Litigants Against Railroads For Damages.

The jury in the case of Arthur McCrae's administrator vs. the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. gave a verdict of $100 and costs for the plaintiff. The railroad in an effort to compromise, had previously paid $315. McCrae was baggage porter at the depot and was killed while the train was in the station shed. His administrator sued for $15,000. A motion for a new trial was made.

Millie Bryant, the colored woman, who was hit by a falling trunk at Gracely, was awarded $300 against the I. C. Railroad Co. She was standing on the platform when a trunk was knocked from a truck and hit her on the head. The court decided that the Cadiz Railroad could not be made a party to the action.

SENATORIAL SPEECH

Congressman Stanley Arouses The Natives.

Stanley, the silver tongued orator of the 2nd district for two hours held the democrats of Owen spell bound on court day. He is a past master at campaign speech making and when he got through his opponents had received a severe drubbing. A large crowd was present and all seemed to be well pleased with his speech.

Many ladies were present and a number of the sons of Owen were heard to express themselves for the gifted Congressman when the speaking was over. A crowd of school children attended the speaking and enjoyed it. The man who can entertain the voters better for two or three hours with a speech has never come this way.—Owen Democrat.

WOMAN SHOT SATURDAY

Marshall Garrett Escaped After Shooting Nora Gray.

BOTH PARTIES COLORED.

Result of The Wounds Not Yet Fully Apparent.

Marshall Garrett fired three shots into the body of Nora Gray, Saturday night at the corner of Seventh and Campbell streets. Both parties are colored and it is said Garrett met the woman and urged her to go with him to a dance and when she refused he drew a pistol and shot her. The worst wound is in the back and it is not yet known what will be the result.

Garrett made his escape and has not yet been arrested. The woman's condition is very serious. The trouble occurred shortly after dark. The victim is a young unmarried woman, a daughter of Rezin Gray.

Aged Teacher Dead.

Miss Lou Arnold, aged 78, died last Friday at Trenton, after a lingering illness. She is survived by one brother, Esq. L. H. Arnold, aged 84, and a sister, Miss Lucy Arnold, aged 80. For fifty years she was a school teacher, having taught in some of the leading colleges of Kentucky and Tennessee.

DEATH OF MRS. RICHARDS

Died Here While on A Visit To Her Sister, Mrs. Geo. E. Randle.

Mrs. Hayward Richard, of Memphis, formerly Miss Edna Price, died Saturday morning at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Geo. E. Randle. She came here about two weeks ago suffering from a liver trouble, seeking a change of climate, but took to her bed soon after her arrival and grew steadily worse. Mrs. Richards was a daughter of Mr. E. H. Price and was born Mar. 20, 1873, and lived here until her husband moved to Memphis a year ago. Her mother died several years ago and her father made his home with her.

She was a member of the Christian church and was a lady of lovely christian character and goodness of heart. Besides her husband and father, she is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Geo. E. Randle, Mrs. W. B. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Gish and Mrs. Jno. W. Longwell. Funeral services were held at Mr. Randle's residence Sunday afternoon and the interment took place in Riverside Cemetery.

Democrats To Try Again.

The Tennessee Democratic Convention at Nashville to nominate a Supreme Judge has been called for May 26 and May 27 to nominate candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner.

Some Break.

The Henry Siegel Company of Boston, settled claims of $1,500,000 for $122,000. Depositors of the Siegel Bank will be offered $224,500 for claims of $2,575,000.

Maryland Against Statewide.

The bill providing for the submission of an amendment for State-wide prohibition in Maryland was killed in the House of Delegates.

DELEGATES ARE NAMED

To Attend Conference In Louisville on Insurance Question.

ANOTHER CENSUS WANTED.

Electric "Slogan Sign" Donated By Kentucky Public Service Co.

The Hopkinsville Business Men's Association met in regular session Friday night, with President R. E. Cooper, in the chair.

The minutes were read and approved and considerable new business was then brought up by Secretary Bleich.

Another meeting of the Good Roads Association was announced for April 14 and the members generally were urged to attend.

J. Elliott Hall, of Bluefield, W. Va., wrote to inquire of the opening for a gas factory and the Secretary was directed to write him to come and look over the situation for himself.

The Kentucky Public Service Co. offered to donate the big electric sign formerly used on the Y. M. C. A. building to advertise the city and on motion Geo. E. Gary, Chas. M. Meacham and T. C. Underwood, were appointed a committee to confer with the City Council, to select a location across Ninth Street, and to open a competitive contest for the selection of a slogan to advertise the city, the slogan selected to be lettered on the electric sign. The sign is 50 feet long and will take letters 16 inches high.

A communication was received from A. P. Bourland inviting the H. B. M. A. to send delegates to the annual Business Men's Conference at Louisville April 7 to 10, which will discuss a variety of subjects for the upbuilding of the South. It is desired that half a dozen delegates go and Geoffrey Morgan and H. A. Robinson volunteered to be two of them.

W. A. Rawling in a letter offered to make a mailing list from the 2 rural routes of Christian county for a consideration, which offer was declined.

The Owensboro Chamber of Commerce asked that delegates be appointed to represent the H. B. M. A. in the conference at Louisville within the next ten days to discuss the situation brought about by the drastic Glenn-Greene insurance law, that has caused of the insurance companies to suspend business in the State. The Association voted to send R. E. Cooper and Chas. M. Meacham as authorized delegates.

A motion was adopted asking the Caron Directory Co., of Louisville, to make a new directory of the city and also to take a census of Hopkinsville. The last census was in 1912 at which time the population was 10,146.

Secretary Bleich reported a class of 13 new members whose applications had come in and all were elected. The membership is now 175.

HEAVIEST FALL

Of Rain Here in Almost Two Years.

The rain-fall Sunday and Sunday night measured two and sixty-two hundredth inches, the heaviest since April, 1912, according to Mr. W. F. Randle's government register. Small streams were flooded but no damage has been reported in this section. Many cisterns which were about dry were filled and the down-pour was welcomed by the farmers.

Austin D. Hicks, of Louisville, after spending a few days in the city, went to Madisonville yesterday.

WORTHY OF DANIEL

Wise With the Wisdom of the Great Ones Was the Prefect of Chuanchow.

One summer afternoon a young girl paused in the street, where a shabby scholar sat reading to a group of idlers outside of the prefect's yamen of Chuanchow city. She had sold her last "larded devil," a kind of doughnut eaten in that part of China, and the day's earnings lay
in her empty basket.

The reader's face was livid, his voice was hoarse, and his blackrimmed spectacles made him look like a lean old dragon fly; but his fingers quivered with the varying emotions of the story, darting, carressing, hovering, insisting, until she quite forgot their brown opium stains and the cadaverous appearance
of their owner.

Some one noticed the girl's absorption as she stood tiptoe peeping
between moving heads and shoulders
at the histrionic gestures of the scholar. A deft hand moved lightly,
and the money disappeared from her
basket.

When the story came to an end the girl awoke from her dream to find that the precious pile of cash was gone. She spoke of her loss to the people who stood near, but no one helped her; and presently, with the callousness which a Chinese crowd
so often shows to misfortune, the bystanders began to laugh.

At that moment a spare man of about thirty came out of the yamen
and turned into the street.

Mr. Li, the prefect of the city—
for it was he—noticed the child, who was now "crying as though her mother were dead," and told his interpreter to find out what was the matter.

"Tis but a little thing, your excellency. The child has lost some cash, and dare not go home," said
the man.

"How much money has she lost?"
"One hundred and eight cash,
your excellency."

"Ask her how it happened."

The prefect waited patiently until, between sobs and terrified pauses,
the girl had told her tale. Meantime a crowd collected, as yamen runners, hangers-on of the court and idlers from the street came sauntering up to see what was happening.

Presently his excellency gave orders that the girl should be taken to the justice hall, so that her case
might be tried. Scarcely crediting their ears, the bystanders began to wonder what had befallen Mr. Li.

Even supposing the troubles of a crying child were worthy the notice
of one concerned with public business, the absence of all proof or evidence in the affair rendered it neither profitable nor wise to inter-
meddle with such a matter.

When, therefore, the people saw him re-enter the court, followed by runners leading the girl, they trooped after them into the great yamen, and even the idlers left their story and the shadow of the wall by
the street edge to see the fun.

The examination, as anyone could have foretold, came to an end without throwing fresh light upon the circumstances of the theft. The secretaries pulled each other's sleeve
and raised their eyebrows. The bystanders whispered, and some of them began to laugh.

Mr. Li spoke a word to the attendants; next moment the yamen
doors swung to with a clatter.

"The people laugh," said Mr. Li,
his keen eyes glittering as he raised
his head and looked at the throng.
"The people laugh at us for trying to help a child of one of the citizens of this city! They laugh at a representative of the 'Dragon Throne'
in the discharge of duty! They must be taught."

The crowd was quiet now, for the sound of the bolts rattling between them and the street had sobered the whisperers.

"Such a breach of etiquette must be punished," continued his excellency, speaking slowly and with emphasis. "Each person shall pay a fine of eight cash before he leaves
this court."

The gamins, who had been most
forward to see the 'great man's' folly,
were now as mum as mice; the students and ragged plea writers who had thronged into the presence chamber were ruefully feeling their empty pockets, and there was much covert borrowing among the crowd.
Half amused by their own discomfort, half afraid of the prefect's
glare, they dared not move.

held them in the hollow of his hand,
the people came forward one by one
to pay their fines.

As the first man laid his cash
upon the table the prefect's eyes—
half-sad, half-tolerant and kindly—scanned his face. Then, to the surprise of everybody, the great man carefully counted the coins with his own fingers.

The brown heaps of copper money
grew upon the table as the crowd
filed past, but the doors remained close fastened, and nobody was allowed to leave the court.

Presently a mean-looking fellow
came up and paid his fine.

His excellency counted the coins.
"This money is covered with grease,"
said he. "What right have you to bring dirty cash to me? Pay eight more for your bad manners."

The man put the money upon the table without a word.

"Hey!" cried Mr. Li, "these coins also are covered with grease! It is against the law to pay dirty money into court. Search your pockets and see whether you have not got some cleaner cash."

The fellow began to search, but
the cash which he produced was greasy.

"Turn out all the money you have.
There are sure to be some clean coins
among the number."

The yamen runners helped the unwilling rascal to empty his pockets,
but all the money in his possession
proved to be in the same oleaginous condition.

"Count these coins," said the prefect.

There were 92 in all.

"Hey!" cried Mr. Li, "ninety-two cash, along with the 16 already paid
in fines, make 108—exactly the amount lost by the little girl. How do you account for that?"

"It is just the sum I had in my pocket. I know nothing about the child's money," protested the trembling rascal.

"Where did you get these cash?"
demanded Mr. Li.

"I got them from a man in the street in exchange, your excellency.
He must have given me greasy
money."

"Go at once and fetch that man,"
said Mr. Li. "I will send a couple of runners with you to bring him
into court."

"The man was a stranger. His excellency's slave could not possibly find him anywhere," stammered the rascal, now shivering with terror.

"Go and seek him at once. You may find him more easily than you suppose."

The man lay in the position which he had been compelled to take before
the representative of the emperor,
with his forehead flat upon the pavement, and said nothing.

"You took this money from the child," said Mr. Li. "It is covered with grease, because she counted it
after handling her oily doughnuts.
She lost one hundred and eight cash,
exactly the sum which was in your pocket when you entered this place.
You are the thief!"

A hum of approval spread through the crowded court. Was ever judge
so wise as his excellency, who knew
both how to attract into his yamen
the kind of people among whom the culprit was likely to be found, and how to single out the thief from amid the throng when once he had him safe within his power?

After the money which lay upon the table had been counted, Mr. Li gave it to the trembling child, who left the court a very happy little girl, followed by a stalwart yamen
runner carrying several strings of cash.

The slight figure rose from the judgment seat and slowly withdrew.
The bolts shot backward, and the crowd poured out through the open doors.

"The thieves had better emigrate,"

PROPER CARE OF THE DUCKS

First Essential Is Dry Quarters, as Dampness Will Develop Lameness—Fowls Require Fresh Water.

The floor of the duck house should be kept clean and in winter covered well with straw or chaff.

A duck can stand a good deal of cold, but if it has to sleep on a damp floor, it will quickly develop lameness.

Letter from a Michigan woman asks how high roosts should be placed for ducks. It may interest her to know that ducks do not go to roost, but sleep on the floor.

Although ducks will spend a great deal of time in the water if it is always accessible, when they return to their quarters they require a perfectly dry place.

The straw or litter which should always be cut fine, must be removed as soon as it becomes damp or filthy. Care in this matter will prevent weakness of the legs and other troubles.

Do not feed young ducks dry food. They require a fairly damp mash until they are about a month old. The first few meals will consist of stale bread, moistened with a little milk, and mixed with a very small portion of fine grit.

After the fifth or sixth day a little finely chopped, well cooked meat should be added to the duckling's rations.

Never feed ducks without first providing plenty of fresh, clean water, as the birds always take a sip of water after each mouthful of food. Ducks will often choke themselves on dry food unless water is right at hand.

A chicken will pick up the grit it needs.

GOOD RULES FOR WORKHORSE

Harness Should Be Looked After and Many Faults Avoided—Give Water in Moderate Quantities.

Start at a walk, and let your horse work very easily for the first half hour.

A heavy draft horse should never be driven faster than a walk, with or without a load.

Look to your harness. Avoid these faults especially: Bridle too long or too short. Blinders pressing on the eye or flapping. (An open bridle is best for most horses.) Throat-latch too tight. Collar too tight or too loose, or dirty on the inside. Shaft-girth too loose. Traces too long. Breeching too low down or too loose. Inside reins too long, in the case of pairs.

Do not let your horse drive himself; but handle the reins gently. Never jerk the reins; to do that is the sure mark of a bad driver.

Try to work with as little backing as possible. Backing a heavy load is apt to strain the hind legs.

Take the horse out of the shafts as much as possible; and if you drive a pair or four, unfasten the outside traces while the horses are standing; they will rest better that way.

Teach your horses to go into the collar gradually. When a load is to be started, speak to the horses and take a firm hold of the reins so that they will arch their necks, keep their legs under them, and step on their toes. A loose rein means sprawling and slipping, often with one horse ahead of the other.

Water your horse as often as possible. Water in moderate quantities will not hurt him, so long as he keeps moving.

Blanket your horse carefully when he stands, especially if he is at all hot. Repeated slight chills stiffen and age a horse before his time.

Always in Demand.

There will always be a place in the market for fresh country butter. In many places the demand meets with practically no supply and the city woman sighs in vain for a glimpse of the farmer who once catered to his regular customers once a week, but who has now "gone out of the business." Had he been able to command the fancy prices now obtainable, he would still be on hand.

Milking in Winter.

A good dairyman says that he likes to do his milking in winter. Then the grain—and grain he must provide—does not seem so extravagant.

Spring Blood and

System Cleanser.

During the winter months impurities accumulate, your blood becomes impure and thick, your kidneys, liver and bowels fail to work, causing so-called "Spring Fever." You feel tired, weak and lazy. Electric Bitters—the spring tonic and system cleanser—is what you need; they stimulate the kidneys, liver and bowels to healthy action, expel blood impurities and restore your health, strength and ambition. Electric Bitters makes you feel like new. Start a four weeks' treatment—it will put you in fine shape for your spring work. Guaranteed. All Druggists. 50c and $1.00. H. E. Bucklen & Co. Philadelphia or St. Louis. Advertisement.

Worth While in Reading.

Some one has suggested that a certain time set apart each Sunday shall be devoted to reading with a purpose. Not just a book picked up at random, and another on quite a different topic when that is finished. At the end of winter little definite mental advance is made from such a method. This winter take books relating, say, to one country, or to a painter and his pictures, or to any definite subject that attracts you, and read on that subject for even one or two hours each Sunday. In three months there will be definite mental results.

FOOD IN THE NICK OF TIME

Stock of Wild Geese the Salvation of Starving Party of Arctic Explorers.

Noah in his ark could not have been more delighted over the return of the dove than were the members of Einar Mikkelsen's party, in the desert of Greenland ice, with the sight of a flock of wild geese. In "Lost in the Arctic" Captain Mikkelsen tells of their need of food, of the fatigue of a long sledge journey, and of his own illness. He had become so weak that he was obliged to ride on the sledge. Consequently their progress was very slow.

"We drive on between a lot of little islands or banks of glacial ice. Suddenly Iverson makes a snatch at the sledge, causing the dogs to halt in astonishment, and whispers eagerly, 'Look! Look! What's that?' He points to something that looks like a lot of round stones, and I can scarcely believe my eyes. It is a big flock of geese, sitting there sound asleep. They have not heard us. In a few seconds Iverson is on his way toward them. I, of course, remain where I am on the sledge.

"He takes aim, fires, and the whole flock rises. Stop a minute! Isn't there one on the ground? I snatch up the glass. Not one, but two are left upon the field, and after following the shrieking flock a little way, Iverson returns, beaming with joy, a big, fat goose in either hand. We are delighted, and drive off southward in the best of spirits. Iverson even stops every now and then to feel the splendid fat bodies of the birds, and we do nothing but talk of what a feast we are to have when they are cooked. The dogs are doing their best; Iverson marches at the rear of the sledge, singing at the top of his voice, and even I feel a little better."—Youth's Companion.

NOISES DISTURBED CARLYLE.

No one has ever inveighed against the noises of London with such picturesque emphasis as Thomas Carlyle. When Augustus Hare met him for the first time at a dinner given by Lady Marian Alford, most of Carlyle's conversation ran upon the sufferings attached to a London residence. "That which the world torments me in most," he moaned, "is the awful confusion of noise. It is the devil's own infernal din all the blessed day long, confounding God's works and his creatures—a truly awful hell-like combination, and worst of all is a railway whistle, like the screech of 10,000 cats, and every cat of them all as big as a cathedral." Against this diatribe may be set the fact that Carlyle spent the last forty-seven years of his life in London, without any compulsion to live there

To The Public.

In regard to the Fire and Tornado Insurance business. The matter seems to grow more complicated every day. Insurance is something that is absolutely necessary in business, and otherwise. Some insure from necessity, others insure for the gratification of being protected. Some know that it is a hard matter to get Insurance under the present circumstances, others think that matters will adjust themselves in due time, but when, we nor no one else knows. We are not alarmists, nor do we put this before the public for self aggrandizement or profit, we only want to remind the public who wants or may want Insurance that they had better place it now. There are only six companies left in the city, two of which we have the good fortune to represent at present, but we don't know when they will withdraw. If you want Insurance, look to your interest and get it now.

Want Breathitt To Run.

Friends of former Attorney General James Breathitt have started a boom for him for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, and the belief was expressed by some of them in Louisville that he would shortly announce his candidacy. In fact, it was learned several weeks ago that Judge Breathitt had been waited upon at his home in Hopkinsville by a delegation of prominent Republicans from various sections of the State and asked to make the race for the senatorial nomination, since which time he has had the matter under consideration. Judge Breathitt is one of the best known Republican politicians in the State, and during his term as Attorney General he handled many important cases affecting the State. He was County Judge of Christian county at the time he was nominated for the State office in 1907, and has long been a power in the party organization in the Second congressional district.—Louisville Times.

Twenty Thousand

Miles on Horseback.

Bowling Green, Ky., March 27.—C. C. Beck, 49; George W. Beck, 33; J. B. Ransom, 40, and R. G. Ryne, 22, cowboys of Olympia, Wash., arrived in the city Tuesday afternoon from Glasgow and Frankfort, Ky., and will leave Bowling Green for Franklin Ky., and Nashville, Tenn., on horseback, on a 20,000-mile journey over the entire United States, which if they complete with "Pinto" a Morgan and Arabian pony, 7½ years old, 12½ hands high, white and black, with which they began the journey at Olympia on May 1 1912, will mean for the four men $20,000 in gold, which will be paid by a magazine. They visit every capital in the United States, having their pictures made with the governor, and if he be absent, the secretary of state is asked to take his place. The cowboys are given until June 1, 1915, to complete the trip. They have covered a distance of 11 300 miles in 23 months, averaging 23 miles a day in six days of the week.

When they crossed the Cascade mountains in Oregon going through Santian Pass they were compelled to battle their way through snow between twelve and twenty feet deep and thirty miles in length. They swam Powder river in Montana, and "Pinto" had a narrow escape from being washed away on account of the swift current and whirlpools, where a number of bridges had been swept away. The animal was roped on both sides and taken safely to the shore.

The cowboys have enjoyed good health and the coldest weather experienced was in Michigan when the thermometer registered at 12 degrees below zero. Since starting they have visited the following states, besides Washington, the starting point: Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York, Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama. The following states are to be visited: Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, and California.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. ALMOST PERFECT IN SYSTEM

Modern Hotel a Wonderful Improvement Over Its Predecessor of Only a Few Years Ago.

"It is wonderful to appreciate the difference in hotel systems of today and 15 years ago. And still, with all the conveniences that are offered to guests at practically the same rates, there is the man who finds fault.

"Today guests have telephones in their rooms, whereas several years ago they had anything from a cow-bell to a row of brass checks operated with a cord.

"At the old Gibson house, about twelve years ago, we installed a device for lessening labor which was called a teletime. It was a sort of punch button affair which was supposed to signal for anything from a San Francisco newspaper to a bag of peanuts. You'd push the button so many times and different lights would bob up on the board in the office after the clerk had released the indicator.

"One day I pulled out the indicator on a certain room and the lights flared up. The signal showed a very difficult drink and I hastened to notify the cafe.

"A boy took the drink upstairs, but could find no one. After a little investigation we found the room had not been occupied for two weeks and that the signal had been given when a maid had pushed the bed against the room button.

"Another device was the old cord in the room at the Grand hotel. A certain number of pulls would release brass checks on which was scheduled the desire of the guest. Whenever a pull came on this indicator it sounded as though some one had dropped a couple of hundred brass checks on a marble floor.

"This affair was a nuisance, for we got to sending ice water to a room every time it worked. Many times a guest would receive three or four pitchers of water.

"Then some one came along and put in the telephone for hotels. The modern day hotel is a wonderful institution compared with that of but a few years ago."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Jewel Thief's Clever Idea.

A noted jewel thief was in the habit of boldly entering hotels in the West end of London, carrying under his arm a small parcel containing a soft cheese. Quickly marching upstairs, he would enter the rooms that were not at the time being occupied, pilfer any articles of jewelry that were lying about on the dressing tables, bury them in the cheese, and return the way he had come. In this manner he appropriated no less than £6,000 worth of jewels within twelve months.

FOR THE GRIP

Peruna Is Sometimes Used With Good Results

Mrs. Jane Gift.

Many people take it after they have had the grip. Their convalescence is slow. They have suffered along for a month or two, without any signs of complete recovery. Then they resort to Peruna as a tonic, with splendid results.

Mrs. Jane Gift, R. F. D. 1, Athens, Ohio, whose portrait appears above, writes: "I think I would have been dead long ago if it had not been for Peruna. Six years ago I had a grippe very bad. The doctor came to see me every day, but I gradually grew worse. I told my husband I thought I would surely die if I did not get relief soon.

"One day I picked up the newspaper and accidentally found a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. I told my husband I wanted to try it. He went directly to the drug store and got a bottle of Peruna. I could see the improvement in a very short time and was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was entirely cured."

Mr. Victor Patneade, 328 Madison St., Topeka, Kas., writes: "Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength, but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again. This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider it a household remedy."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

THE MINISTER'S FEE.

In early days clergymen depended in considerable measure for their living on donation parties. It was customary in the fall of the year to stock their cellars with liberal supplies of firewood, fruits, vegetables and meats. Cash payments were meager, infrequent and irregular. But with a bin of potatoes and a barrel of salt pork below, there was no danger of actual starvation.

Religious parishes long since substituted salary payments, more or less periodical, for the old fashioned donation parties. But one single exception, the custom of the wedding fee, has survived. Trinity Episcopal Church, of Chicago, has just announced a plan to have a minister on hand continuously to perform weddings, at which no fee will be accepted.

Clergymen are now averse to anything even slightly suggestive of the tip you hand to a Pullman porter. Few railroads give ministers free passes as formerly. The minister's fee at the wedding has long furnished material for humorous paragraphs, and some would like to see the custom done away with.

The objection to the course suggested by Trinity Church, of Chicago, is that clergymen are usually underpaid. A few metropolitan divines, who combine fascinating eloquence of speech with a gift for executive administration of large institutional plants, may draw comfortable incomes. But these combinations of gifts are rare. The average country minister thinks he is on "Easy Street" if he draws $1,000 a year. Thousands and thousands of them work for $2 a day, less than the average mechanic receives.

The marriage fee is a tax that comes once or twice in a lifetime, and it bears on about every one, and helps to support unselfish work for community service. When clergymen are adequately paid, no doubt it will fall into disuse. The felicitous hour of marriage opens up many parsimonious purses, in support of agencies that work for community betterment.—Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle.

Rheumatism, Sprains Backache, Neuralgia

"Yes, daughter, that's good stuff. The pain in my back is all gone—I never saw anything work as quickly as Sloan's Liniment." Thousands of grateful people voice the same opinion. Here's the proof.

Relieved Pain in Back.
"I was troubled with a very bad pain in my back for some time. I went to a doctor but he did not do me any good, so I purchased a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, and now I am a well woman. I always keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment in the house."—Miss Matilda Cotton, 264 Myrtle Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sciatic Rheumatism.
"We have used Sloan's Liniment for over six years and found it the best we ever used. When my wife had sciatic rheumatism the only thing that did her any good was Sloan's Liniment. We cannot praise it highly enough."—Mr. Ferigo, Des Moines, Iowa.

Sprained Ankle Relieved.

"I was ill for a long time with a severely sprained ankle. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and now I am able to be about and can walk a great deal. I write this because I think you deserve a lot of credit for putting such a fine Liniment on the market and I shall always take time to recommend Dr. Sloan's Liniment."—Mrs. Chas. Rouse, Baltimore, Md.

Upon my word, the skirt she wore
Was slit from h m to waist,
And, gaping, showed, I much deplore,
A shapely limb incased.

In silken hose and filmy white,
The while a rounded knee
Peeped in and out, a shameless sight!
For all the world to see.

I knew that she was young and fair;
Her glance, I felt, was pert.
On sudden thought, I stopped her
there
And pointed to that skirt.

In angry tones the thing I scored.

She looked a bit appalled;
Then, "Done it th'ilin' on a board
Wiv Willie Smil!" she bawled.

CREDIT BUREAU

Merchants Take Steps For Organization For Mutual Protection.

Steps toward organizing a Business Men's Credit Bureau were taken at a meeting held at the H. B. M. A. rooms Friday afternoon. A number of business men attended and after a general discussion, a committee was appointed to investigate fully and report at another meeting Thursday afternoon.

A permanent organization will in all probability be agreed upon.

Two Requests.

1st.—In case of fire immediately turn in the alarm, by calling phone No. 24. Then give location distinctly and accurately. Many persons make the mistake of first doing all they can to extinguish the fire before notifying fire department. This delay is often dangerous to property and lessens efficiency of firemen.

2nd.—Do not call fire station for at least 15 minutes after an alarm of fire has been turned in, as the fire phone must be used by Mrs. Hines to notify firemen on the outside. Therefore I ask the public to grant me this request. Not to call the fire station for information regarding the location of fires, for at least 15 minutes after alarm is sounded.

Yours for Good Service,
E. P. FEARS,

F. A. WALLIS CELEBRATES

Wrote Over $600,000 in Month
---Gala Event Falls On Mr.
Wallis' Birthday.

(Eastern Underwriter.)

The agents and office staff of the Frederick A. Wallis Agency of the Fidelity Mutual Life covering Greater New York and Long Island together with about one hundred brokers contributing to the production of the agency were given a dinner by Manager Wallis at the Savoy Hotel, New York, on Friday, celebrating the production of $601,500 delivered and paid for business from February thirteenth to March thirteenth.

The affair was really a double celebration, the date for the dinner falling on the forty-fifth anniversary of the host's birth, and the members of the agency and office staff presented Mr. Wallis with a handsome gold desk set consisting of two ink wells, letter opener, clock, blotter and tray, each article being initialed F. A. W. On the tray was the inscription: "Presented by New York City Agency to Frederick A. Wallis on his production of $600,000 February 13th to March 13th, 1914."

Mr. Wallis presided as toastmaster and was much affected on being presented with the gift. The presentation speech was made by Henry Wadsworth who said:

"Mr. Wallis I have been honored by my co-workers of the Fidelity Mutual Life on this occasion of the anniversary of your birth by being selected to express to you the deep admiration in which we hold you, not only as our manager, but as a citizen and one we are all extremely pleased to have as our head in a great office. I voice the sentiment of the whole staff when I say that by your ever ready helping hand, your great store of information, always at our disposal and your deep interest in the success of each individual under your management coupled with your invariably pleasing manner, has endeared you to us all in such a way that I cannot find words that will express to you the feeling we have for you personally and as our governing head. Suffice it to say that we all respect you, admire you, believe in you and trust you.

"Your enthusiasm and zeal has filled each one of us with the determination not only to succeed in the great business of life insurance for ourselves, individually, but for you and all of us collectively, and to make the agency over which you have the management the greatest of this great company which we represent.

"I have known you for twenty years and I consider myself a better man for having had the acquaintance, and it is with the utmost pleasure on behalf of the agents and office force of the Fidelity Mutual Life in greater New York and Long Island, I present to you this token commemorative of your birth, and the great esteem in which we all hold you along with the earnest wish that you will have many more anniversaries and that each one will bring you health, increased prosperity and happiness."

TESTING SMALL SEEDS

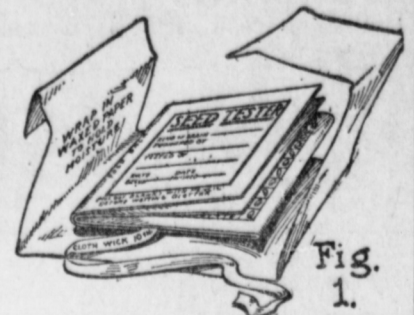

EXCELLENT METHOD FOR OATS, WHEAT, ALFALFA, ETC.

Ordinary Blotting Paper With Squares Marked Off Will Be Found Entirely Satisfactory—Make the Test Every Year.

(By BERT ZALL, National Crop Improvement Service.)

A simple method of testing small grains for germination is to take an ordinary piece of white blotting paper, about five or six inches wide by 19 inches long, fold twice, making paper about square, as in cut.

Mix the sample thoroughly so that when you count out 100 seeds they will fairly represent the entire lot. Take them as they come, large, small, shriveled, smutted and weed seeds, if there are any in the sample. Mark of 100 squares on one page of blotter after folding. Place one kernel in each square, fold as shown in Fig. 1 after wetting thoroughly. Wrap test in waxed (battered) paper after inserting a strip of cloth about ten inches long to act as a wick.

Pile up the tests as in Fig. 2 with wicks leading into a glass of water. Keep cool but do not let the test freeze. Read the test in six to ten days. Ninety-six seeds should germinate.

It is important to test all of the seeds every year, because, for many reasons, there are times when the germination of the seeds is very low, and many a poor crop, as, for instance, the oat crop of 1913, is largely due, not only to the weather, but to the fact that a great deal of the seed was not in proper condition to plant.

Wicks Lead to Water.

DAMAGE BY POCKET GOPHERS

Little Animals Are Very Destructive to Orchard and Nursery Stock and to Garden Truck.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

According to the biological survey of the department of agriculture, the pocket gophers are very destructive to orchard and nursery stock, and to garden produce. Apricot trees six inches in diameter have been destroyed by the gopher. In one orchard in California alone an assistant of the survey counted seven trees that had been killed by gophers. The ranchman did not seem to know what was the trouble, but thought it was due to some blight. A gopher was seen boring under one of the trees and later on was caught in a trap. One of the greatest enemies of the gopher is the barn owl. One-half bushel of the remains of gophers was found near the nest of an owl of this species, and yet almost every ranchman would shoot an owl at sight. The survey is trying to educate them to the value of owls.

The best method of killing the pocket gopher is to destroy them by the use of poison mixed with chopped sweet potatoes. The potatoes are very acceptable to the gopher owing to the fact that they keep well under ground. In one experiment of 20 different runways, dead gophers were found in 19, and in the twentieth the potato had been stored up by the gopher for a future meal.

Poultry Experiments.

As a result of feeding experiments conducted at the Missouri station it was concluded that whole grain does not fatten chickens, that it is cheaper to feed the grain finely ground; and that the best grains can be had by feeding birds finely ground feeds when confined in crates. The best returns resulted from a ration consisting of 24 parts white bolted corn meal, 6 parts low grade flour and 1 part each of oatmeal, pea meal, buckwheat middlings, and wheat middlings. The flesh of the birds fed on this ration was creamy white in color, the fat was distributed over the body, and the entrails were encased with fat.

Better Cows.

Let the serious, earnest watchword be, fewer cows and better. If the cows that bring no profit to the owner were put to the shambles the price of milk would at once advance to where it ought to be to correspond with the cost of production. Sell the rotten cows now!

Dumb Chills and Fever.

Douglasville, Tex.—“Five years ago I was caught in the rain at the wrong time”, writes Miss Edna Rutherford, of Douglasville, “and from that time was taken with dumb chills and fever, and suffered more than I can tell. I tried everything that I thought would help, and had four different doctors, but got no relief, so I began to take Cardui. Now I feel better than in many months.” Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That's the secret of its 50 years of success. As a tonic there is nothing in the drug store like it. As a remedy for women's ills, it has no equal. Try it. Price $1.00.

The Easier Way.

Speaking of the splendid work done by the Carnegie Foundation, which recently held its annual meeting in New York, Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell university, said:

“The generosity, the intelligent and unselfish devotion, which Mr. Carnegie has shown in this philanthropy, have won for him the esteem of the whole nation.”

“The esteem of one's fellow men—not an easy thing to win; but as Mr. Carnegie has proven, not so difficult, either, as the sage considered it to be.”

“A youth, you know,” continued President Schurman, “sought a sage and inquired of him:

“What shall I do, oh, sage, to have my fellow men speak well of me?”

“The sage's reply was:

“Die.”—Philadelphia Bulletin.

TO LOAD LARGE HOGS

BOTTOMLESS CRATE IS HANDY FOR LONE-HANDED MAN.

Illustration Shows How Big Animal May Be Driven Into Wagon by One Man—Some Farmers Are stingy With Shelter.

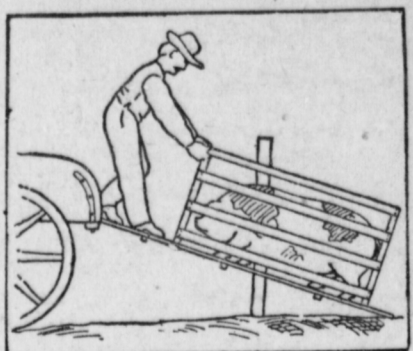

(By R. A. GALLIHER.)

The lone-handed farmer often experiences no small amount of inconvenience in loading a large hog. For the benefit of a farmer who never thought of a hog-crate without the bottom, I will give my plan for making the crate and the way to load the hog into the wagon.

For corner posts of crate procure posts of poplar two inches square and three and one-half feet long. The ends, slide and top should also be made of poplar strips, one by two and one-half inches. Cut strips for sides and top about five feet long and for the ends, about two and one-half feet long.

These dimensions may vary according to the size crate you desire, but be careful not to make the crate so wide that the hog can turn around in it.

Nail side and end strips to posts with wire nails that will reach Bottomless Hog Crate.

through the posts and clinch. The top slats are nailed to the upper slats on ends. You now have a complete hog crate, and one without a bottom.

Now for the loading. Take your wagon as near the place as possible where the hog is to be loaded. Lay boards about ten feet long from the rear end of the wagon to the ground, with a few cleats nailed on under side to prevent boards from springing apart.

Stand the crate on end nearby. Shell a little corn close to crate, and when the opportunity presents itself, drop the crate on over the hog. You are now ready to load Mr. Hog, which is done as shown in the accompanying cut.

Simply walk up the boards backwards, pulling the crate in front, which compels the hog to walk right into the wagon bed. Unloading is done in the same manner, except that the hog walks out backwards.

It is a good idea to drive a stake at each side of boards to prevent a hog from overturning the crate. This is not necessary if there are two men to do the loading, for in such a case one can stand at each side of the crate.

Select the kind of hog you want and then grow the best. If you go in for bacon hogs, don't make the mistake of buying the lard types of sows.

It's a mistake to have pigs come in the middle of winter.

Some farmers are liberal with their feed, but stingy with their shelter. They will shovel out plenty of corn then see their pigs pile up in a bunch in a fence corner and shiver for hours in the cold wind, thereby losing all value of the corn.

Do not neglect to keep plenty of coal or wood ashes where the pigs can get at them all the time.

If you find a runt in the litter don't waste too much time trying to build him up, but look after the good ones.

The young folks ought to know why trees and plants grow as they do, and how to help them grow. They should be taught the names of the trees, grasses and grains of the country. And would it be altogether impractical to teach them something about actual farm business? The bookkeeping might relate to farm operations, instead of things away in city and town. It would be a good thing to put into the arithmetic a good many problems bearing on farm life.

DIFFERENCE IN VIEW POINT

One Man Makes as Much With 20 Cows as Another Does With 40 —Tester Was Lacking.

One dairyman produced $2,000 worth of milk from 20 cows, or $100 per cow; a neighbor bestowed twice as much labor on 40 cows and sold only $1,800 worth of milk, or $45 per cow, barely paying expenses, while the first man made a profit of over $1,000.

Yet the second man said he had no time to spend a few minutes each day weighing and testing the milk from each cow.

Instead, he spent four long weary years in raising and harvesting crops on a 160-acre farm and feeding and milking 40 cows to make as much profit as his neighbor did in one year with half the cows, half the lands and half the labor.

Modern Machinery Used.

Departmental reports turned in by the fieldmen from the various stations show that during the last year more up-to-date and modern machinery has been purchased and installed on the farms than during any previous ten years.

NEED MEAT IN THEIR DIET

Scotch Specialists Make Assertion
That It Should Be Supplied to Young Children.

There is a prevalent misconception
that meat is not good for young children. Drs. A. Dingwell Fordyce and
G. W. Scott Carmichael, two famous Scotch specialists in the diseases of children, in an article on "Glandular
tuberculosis in Children," published in the Lancet, combat this old-fashioned idea. They write:

"Constantly we see otherwise
healthy children suffering from indigestion due to overfeeding with bread,
crisps, potatoes, biscuits, cakes,
sweets. Comparatively rarely do we see indigestion due to excessive meat-eating. Most certainly a large amount of meat in the diet of a healthy young child is likely to cause digestive trouble. But the point is that an adequate supply of flesh meat and fish in the daily diet is not only beneficial, but
is, as a rule, necessary to health.

"During the first half of the second year the child should get this animal food in the form of egg, bacon or fish. Thereafter he should be given daily at dinner a little chicken, rabbit or butcher's meat. We consider that deficiency of animal food—in the shape of meat, fish and eggs—in the diet, along with the common co-existent carbohydrate dyspepsia, is a widespread and important underlying factor in the development of various infections, and is more particularly one of the primary causes of cervical glandular tuberculosis."

HIS PERIOD OF ENJOYMENT

Farmer Surely Had Earned Rest, But
He Waited Just a Little Bit Too Long.

Once there lived a farmer who worked so hard he was too tired to go to church on Sunday, says Frank Telford in Farm and Fireside. His hired men refused to stand for the first and last call to breakfast at 3:45 in the morning and left before the end of the week. His wife milked the cows and hoed the garden because help was so hard to keep. The farmer voted against hard roads, and when he was elected to the school board
hired for teacher a young girl just out of high school, because she would take the job for $30 a month. In short, he squeezed the dollars so hard
the eagle screamed. He would steal acorns from a blind pig.

When the farmer was fifty he had a half section of good black land in the corn belt and money in the bank.
He moved to town to enjoy a hard earned rest. But his stomach was so tired of corn bread and bacon that it went on a strike and the farmer ate milk toast. He could predict a storm
before the first cloud appeared, by the creaking of his joints, and he had to call for help to turn over in bed.
One day his doctor said he had made
enough money to buy a new touring
car and the farmer died of heart disease.

Traveler's Tea.

When traveling there is great comfort in one's own cup of tea. For this poignant need of a traveler a charming little tea box of mahogany, containing a small silver tea caddy and a little tea ball, reproduced in miniature
and a teakettle, has been placed upon the market. It is very simple in its arrangement, compact and easy to pack and makes a really practical gift.

There are many places in America,
and in Europe also, where good tea is a luxury, and many an unsuspecting American woman is astonished when she pays her bill for what she considers a very simple repast. She usually finds that her cup of tea cost
more than a very elaborate dessert,
and so the new idea is a great economy as well as a comfort when on the train or on the steamer.

Didn't Hurt Them.

One day while in Trenton, a man
from a small town happened to collide
with a bunch of hygienics, and among other things they referred to the water supply of his home town. "It isn't as good as it might be," said the Jersey-
man when questioned as to its quality.
"There is something like 10,000,000
microbes to a drop, but it is the best
we can do at present." "What do you do to safeguard yourself against water
of that kind?" queried one of the hygienics, with a look of concern. "You surely take some precautionary measures." "Oh, yes," smiled the Jersey-
man. "First we filter the water and then we boil it, and then we drink applejack."

Early Knowledge of Cancer.

The Egyptians recognized cancer
as a growth within the tissues of the body, and Celsus elaborated upon this
when he discovered that some growths
were malignant and some benign.
Then in 180 B. C. Leonides declared that the only hope of cure lay in eradicating the growth entirely from the body.

Today the fact remains that cancer
is a growth within the cell tissue of the human body, but the cause of it is little better understood.

She Was a Veteran, Too.

Old Mr. Anderson, who was fond of relating stories of the war, after the Christmas dinner was over mentioned
having been in five engagements.

"That's not so much," said little Edgar suddenly.

"Why, Edgar?" cried his scandalized
mother; "what do you mean?"

"Five isn't many," persisted Edgar;
"sister Edna has been engaged nine times."—Ladies' Home Journal.

WINTERING THE LIVE STOCK

Profits Are Greatly Reduced by Clinging to Old Cows and Sheep Long Past Their Usefulness.

The keeping of old cows and sheep
long past their usefulness will largely reduce the profits of the dairyman and farmer. The better method would be to have them served, give shelter and feed and when fresh sell the cow with the calf. They may be cheaply wintered on fodder, wheat straw and second-crop clover hay. Old sheep should have been sold in the early fall for what they will bring. It seldom pays to winter them. Before the cows come fresh they should be given a little
grain, say four quarts of wheat bran
and one quart of flaxseed meal well mixed together. Divide into two equal parts; give one part in the morning
and the other half in the evening to each one. This feed will loosen the hide and greatly improve the appearance of the stock. Card and brush them off every morning. This will remove the loose hair. The buying of thin cows and milked-out cows from dairymen who cannot afford to winter
such stock, is found to be a profitable
business by farmers having plenty of rough feed, such as fodder, straw and
second-crop clover and stable grasses.

The mild winter has been a great advantage to dairymen and farmers short
of grain and feed, as much less food was needed to keep the stock. Economy must be practiced; no grain or fodder should be wasted. Fodder fed to cattle under cover, having the sheds
heavily bedded and lined on the north side to keep out the cold winter winds,
may be wintered in good condition.
The fodder will last longer and feed
more stock where fed in small quan-
ties in connection with straw and second-crop hay.

FEW CAUSES FOR POOR GRAIN

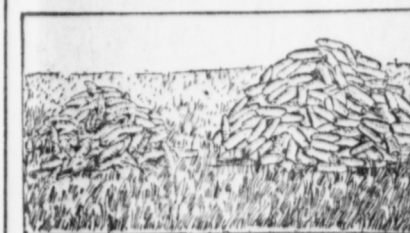

Fungi and Bacteria in Seed and Soil
Injure and Destroy Roots of Plant, Says an Expert.

The introduction of harmful fungi
and bacteria into the soil is an important cause of deterioration of grains after continued cropping, declared H. Bolley, professor of botany, North Dakota Agricultural college, in a recent address at the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Professor Bolley is one of the most eminent plant pathologists in the country, his early
studies on the potato scab and flax
wilt, and his later investigations of the diseases of cereals having made him widely known among scientists.
He believes that fungi and bacteria
resident in the seed, and in the soil,
injure and destroy the roots of plants
and otherwise affect succeeding crops.
The remedy for this is not primarily fertilization, nor a neutralization of soil toxins, but the combating of fungi and bacteria by means of sanitary measures such as seed selection and disinfection, and crop rotation.

FRESH MANURE IS VALUABLE

It Is Possible Under the Best Systems of Management to Prevent All Loss of Ingredients.

Manure is never so valuable as
when perfectly fresh, for it is impossible under the best system of management to prevent a loss of its fertilizing ingredients. For this reason, whenever possible it should be hauled directly to the field and spread.
This saves time and labor and involves handling but once. When it is impossible to remove the manure at once to the field, it must be properly stored. A lean-to shed is all that is needed. This should have a watertight floor. When manure must be left in the yard, a rick should be carefully built. It should be made so high and compact that the hardest rain

will not soak through.

The sides should be perpendicular
and the top dipped to ward the center.
It is advantageous to have the manure saturated with water, but the rick or heap must be so built as to retain this moisture. The water must not drain away from the heap. Build the rick at least six feet high.

Early Cabbage.

Early cabbage is usually profitable.
The first heads should be ready for marketing not later than the first of July. This means that the plants
must be started in hotbeds or greenhouses and then transplanted to cold frames. Strong, stalky plants set in the open ground as soon as weather conditions will permit will produce
marketable heads by the first of July.
If a good strain of Jersey Wakefield
or some other early variety is selected all of the heads should be sold before the first of August.

Hotbed Sash.

Are the hotbed sash in good repair?
There will be no time for glazing or painting when transplanting begins.
Glass is very cheap this winter. A good time to buy sash and do your own glazing.

METHODIST REVIVAL

Was Begun By Rev. A. R. Kasey Sunday and Will Continue Ten Days.

A revival meeting was begun at the Methodist Church Sunday, in which the pastor, Rev. A. R. Kasey, will be assisted by Rev. Robert Lear, a singer and evangelist. There will be services in the afternoon and at 7:30 at night.

Mr. Lear was expected to arrive in time to take part in the service last night. He expects to organize a big choir with a choir of children as a special feature of his work. He is not only a fine singer, but also a successful preacher. The meeting will be continued until April 8.

SUN HITCHED TO YOUR BATHTUB

By an ingenious combination of the principles of the solar heater and the fireless cooker it is possible to keep the household supplied with hot water, even after two or three days of cloudy weather, while by a piping system that supplies water to the tank both from the furnace or gas heater, and from the solar heater as well, the device is rendered suitable for any climate, says March Technical World Magazine.

The plan of utilizing the rays of the sun for heating water has developed extensively since the first crude coil was set upon the southern exposure of a roof and it was found that water, drawn from it after the heat of the day, was warm. Since then the principles of radiation of heat have been carefully studied and applied to the perfected device.

A flat box, covered with glass, is set at an angle on the roof, pergola, garage, or other convenient place where it will get the most benefit from the sun's heat. This air-tight box contains a heating coil of approximately one hundred and fifty feet of galvanized pipe three-fourths of an inch in diameter, which is soldered on a base of sheet copper. This metal is used because of its rapid heat-conducting property and the soldering forms a metal contact which transmits the heat to the under side of the pipe where the water is coldest. The small pipe and the sheet of copper respond so quickly to the sun's rays in warm weather that hot water can be drawn after five minutes exposure.

In order to conserve the heat for hours, or even days, the tank which receives the hot water is packed after the manner of a fireless cooker, so that early in the morning the supply of water hot from yesterday's sun is available. This is one of the most important improvements in the solar heater system, as the great demand for hot water is in the early part of the day, before the oldstyle heater would be in operation.

Of course the heat is retained in proportion to the capacity of the tank. The standard size tanks range from thirty to one hundred and twenty gallons, while large ones are constructed for special purposes.

Home building should begin now, when money can be gotten for the purpose, by becoming a member of the Hopkinsville Building & Loan Association. Office at First National Bank.

SIX ARE SENTENCED

Small Bunch of Convicts Result of Term Just Ending.

TWO OF THEM ARE WOMEN.

One More Week With Only Equity Matters Being Heard.

Judge Hanbery on Saturday sentenced the prisoners convicted this term as follows:

Albert Huff, grand larceny, to reformatory at Frankfort, 1 to 5 years. Sarah McKnight, cutting and wounding another, 1 to 5 years; Rosa Bell Moore, shooting and wounding another, 1 to 5 years; Will Wooldridge, grand larceny, 1 to 5 years, all three were sentenced to the School of Reform at Lexington.

Sheriff Jewell Smith, Vego Barnes and Stonewall Morris left with the four above named yesterday.

Two others were sentenced to the penitentiary at Eddyville. Calvin Neely gets 2 to 10 years for breaking into a car and Will Sivells 1 to 5 years for grand larceny. They will be taken away in a day or two.

The jury in the case of W. H. Carter vs. L. O. Garrott, Friday, gave the plaintiff judgment for $608.44.

The juries were discharged Saturday and only equity matters are being heard this week.

Charlie Watkins and Gertie Mumford, a colored couple, were married in open court yesterday by Rev. Lawson Major, to stop the prosecution of Watkins on a seduction charge.

BUTLER IS CONVICTED

Oklahoma Jury Hold Christian County Man Guilty Of Manslaughter.

According to a dispatch received here the jury at Woodward, Okla., which heard the case against C. O. Pollard and Silas Butler, Jr., former attendants at the State Insane Asylum there, on the charge of causing the death of Frank Pomeroy, a patient, by beating him, returned a verdict freeing Pollard, but finding Butler guilty of second degree manslaughter.

The alleged beating of Pomeroy occurred on January 16 and he is said to have died three days later. Three attendants were charged with the offense. Butler is a native of this county and a member of a prominent family. After being discharged from the asylum he returned home and was arrested here when the warrant from Oklahoma was received.

He submitted to arrest quietly and returned to Oklahoma without requisition. He declared he was innocent and seemed confident that he would be able to clear himself of the charge.

New Step in Surgery.

Baltimore, Md., March 24.—An operation which marks a new step in surgery was performed in the Baltimore Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital this afternoon.

The entire cornea of an eye of a pig was taken out and grafted on the eye of a three-months-old boy. The pig was brought from Germany to this country for the purpose.

The little patient is David Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kane, of Gettysburg. It is said by the surgeons at the hospital that every indication points to the success of the operation, although the grafting of an animal's cornea on a human never before has succeeded.

In former operations, however, the cornea used was that of a rabbit. Today's operation was the first in the history of surgery to be performed with the eye of a pig.

Her Kind Offer.

James K. Hackett, the actor, tells the story of a merchant who had been traveling some months and upon his return was informed of the death of a valued friend.

A few days later he called on the bereaved widow to offer his expressions of sympathy. During the visit he remarked:

"I was a good friend of your late husband. Is there not something of his which I could have as a memento of him?"

She raised her velvety brown eyes to his, which a few moments before were moist with tears, and said:

"How would I do?"
